FORAKER is dead, but the echoes of his fire-alarm are still reverberating through the country.

The British Tories are in a position to fully appreciate American humor as exhibited in the story of McGinty.

The farmers who are using corn for fuel will doubtless be gratified to read of CAR-NEGIE'S princely gifts to the cities of Allegheny and Pittsburgh. It shows that protection is benefiting some one.

We are told that the Louisiana Lottery will turn that State over to the Republicans if the Democrats refuse to renew the charter of the gambling concern. It is a Republican organ that utters this boast.

The defeat of the Republican candidate in the congressional district of the late "Father of the House" would have been a tidal wave triumph for tariff reform; the reduction of his majority is a substantial victory.

The morning papers have just discovered that the investigation of the Stillwell murder mystery at Hannibal, the story of which was fully told in the last SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH, is an interesting and important piece of news.

The arrest of "SMITH" took place just outside the door of the Globe-Democrat, but if the detectives had taken him into the office to arrest him the local force might have discovered it without waiting for the next day's POST-DISPATCH.

The arrest of SMITH, alias SIMONS, alias J. B. KELLY, one of the Cronin suspects, took place last Monday night at the door of one of the morning newspaper offices, but both of the morning dailies got the first news of the arrest from the Tuesday afternoon POST-DISPATCH.

If Congress wishes to secure a deep-water harbor at Galveston the best way to do it is to make the appropriation payable some on the depth of water secured. This effective method employed with success at the mouth of the Pass, and is in striking contrast with the failures scored by other methods.

News of the election in the late Judge WELLES' Philadelphia district indicate that Republican REYNOLDS has defeated Democratic AYRES by a reduced majority.
This is a reduction of a reduction, AYRES having cut down the Republican majority in the last election. It shows that the campaign of education is progressing finely in the stronghold of protection.

The statement of representatives of the Lathrop crusaders that no resistance will be offered should an attempt be made to arrest those who took part in the wrecking of saloons shows that a better temper has succeeded the passions first aroused by the contest. Submission to the law and the authorities is the first requisite to a victorious enforcement of the law against offending saloon-keepers.

The New York Tribune remarks that in the last election in New York State "HILL succeeded only because he was able to sell a presidency for a governorship." This is equivalent to saying that the Republican party succeeded only because it was able to buy the presidency. It is gratifying to have a popular belief confirmed by such high party authority.

It is reported from Washington that the joint police arrangement proposed by Secretary BAYARD for the regulation of sea killing and the protection of the fur-seal from extinction in Behring's Sea, will soon be signed by Great Britain, Russia and the United States. If neither of the three powers has any jurisdiction over that sea outside of the marine league, they cannot conjointly acquire such jurisdiction by mutual consent, so far as the ships and subjects of other nations are concerned. But they can enforce their police regulations against Russian, British and American sealers, and that will answer the purpose.

THE VAIL TRAGEDY.

The Vail tragedy, which has aroused widespread interest, promises to become a celebrated case, should it reach the courts, by reason of some exceedingly strange circumstances connected with it.

Mrs. FANNIE SLATTERY VAIL was visiting her uncle, JEROME MCATERS, at Old Monroe, in this State. On Saturday, February 8, her husband, CHARLES F. VAIL, left his home in this city to spend several days with her. The following Monday afternoon he wanted to return to St. Louis and a team was harnessed to a wagon to take him to the station. Mrs. VAIL and her cousin, Miss MCATERS, decided to accompany him to the station. The cousin had climbed into the wagon, and while VAIL was helping his wife in, a revolver in his overcoat pocket was discharged, and Mrs. VAIL was fatally shot. VAIL declared that the shooting was accidental, his revolver having struck the tire of the wheel in such a way as to cause its discharge. Mrs. VAIL when asked about it before her death merely said that her husband had told her it was an accident.

Her remains were interred without further investigation.

Now come the astonishing features of the case. Shortly after his wife's death VAIL applied for the insurance on her life.
It was found then that he had piled up this insurance to the amount of $20,000, of which, strange enough, $15,000 was accident insurance, although his wife was not traveling. What was still more remarkable, before he started for Old Monroe he had taken out accident policies good for two days only, on himself and wife, for $5,000 each. These policies expired the evening of the day of the killing.
VAIL had allowed a policy on his own life to lapse, but had carefully maintained all policies on his wife's life. The agent of one of the insurance companies claims that Mrs. VAIL's name was forged on an application and that the existence of the policy on her life was unknown to her.

The case is given a more astonishing aspect by the fact that VAIL, whose first wife had obtained a divorce from him on the ground of desertion, had never openly acknowledged his second wife and neither lived with her nor contributed to her support, and within eleven days of his marriage on July 9, last, had applied for $10,- 000 insurance on her life but without success. The brother of the dead woman states that he examined VAIL's overcoat and while the bullet passed through the bottom of the pocket it passed out of the lining high up at such an angle as necessitated the forcible twisting of the muzzle of the revolver in some way.

On the basis of these circumstances the accident insurance companies refuse to make payment. On the same basis a thorough investigation of the case by the authorities seems to be imperative.

The Democrats do well in serving notice that they will seize upon the earliest opportunity to get a Supreme Court decision on the question whether a bill passed with less than a majority of the whole membership voting is or is not an act of Congress. The Constitution does prescribe that a quorum to do business shall not be less than a majority, and it specifically limits the power of a less number to adjourning and compelling the attendance of absent members. But it does not specify how the presence of a quorum shall be ascertained. The court may hold that the absence of such specification leaves the House free to prescribe by rule how the presence of a quorum may be ascertained. Hitherto both Houses have uniformly held that the yeas and nays could alone attest the presence of a quorum, and that old usage is entitled to great weight. But if the court holds that each House is authorized to frame its own rule on the subject, that will settle the question which is too important to be left open, and it will then follow that the present House has, by its rules, authorized less than a third of its members to act for the whole body whenever the Speaker can "see a quorum."

OWING to the senseless efforts of the police to suppress all information concerning the arrest of "SMITH," the Cronin suspect, in this city, it was not until 1:10 o'clock that a clue to the St. Louis end of the mysterious case was received in the POST-DISPATCH office yesterday. By 8:15, a little more than two hours, over three columns of news about the arrest, including the arrest itself, the previous tracking of the prisoner by the detectives, an interview with the proprietor of the hotel where he stopped, a sketch of the Cronin murder, of the prisoner and of his connection with the crime were in type and the public had the benefit of it three-quarters of an hour afterwards. The success of the Post-Dispatch in this case is a little more than a little to add to its reputation for promptness in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch is the only afternoon paper in the country with resources adequate to the achievement of such a brilliant piece of journalistic work. No morning paper could beat it.

FRIDAY IS REMNANT DAY.

And the merchants will tell you all about it in to-morrow's (Thursday) POST-DIS-PATCH.

"INVALUABLE MARKET REPORTS." That is what a leading firm calls a "Post-Dispatch" Feature.

The well-known general commission firm of J. L. Stedelin & Co., tell the following batch of letters to which speak the merchants:
J. L. STEDLIN & CO.,
General Commission,
222 North Third street, St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 19, 1890.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: We submit the following extracts of a few of the many letters we receive daily, bearing testimony to the good qualities of your paper and the invaluable market reports it contains.

J. L. STEDLIN & CO.
OPDYKE, ILL., Feb. 8, 1890.

I think the POST-DISPATCH is a big improvement on market reports, and you deserve great credit in sending it to your patrons. I wish I could get it always. P. O. GLASMAN.

NEW PALESTINE, ILL., Feb. 6, 1890.

Very thankful for POST-DISPATCH. I like it splendidly. K. H. ZAGARER.

PIAIA, ILL., Feb. 5, 1890.

I received the POST-DISPATCH all O.K.
Just suits us. GEO. H. CLARK.

TAMARA, ILL., Feb. 4, 1890.

We are much pleased with your new mode of price current through the POST-DIS-PATCH, and trust you will keep us well posted. GEO. BLANCHARD MBSR. CO.

SLEEPER, MO., Feb. 4, 1890.

I received the POST-DISPATCH, for which please accept thanks. I think it better than Price Current. G. W. CAMPBELL.

MARCOUTAN, ILL., Feb. 2, 1890.

We are very well pleased with the POST-DISPATCH market report. Nothing better could be done. K. KOLB & SON.

MARCOUTAN, Feb. 2.

J. L. Stedelin & Co.

The POST-DISPATCH received. It is up with the times. Many thanks for it.

REICHARDS & CO.

SMITHSON, ILL., Feb. 4.

We have received one copy of the POST-DISPATCH and like the scheme very well.
Think it beats the Price Current.

L. G. FOSTER & SON.

BOONVILLE, MO., Feb. 6, 1890.

I am receiving your favor in the way of POST-DISPATCH, dated for which accept my thanks. I find quotations very reliable and I like it very much. D. S. KOONTZ.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY.

To save money will be offered in the splendid barren which the merchants will advertise in to-morrow's (Thursday) POST-DISPATCH.
